

December is synonymous with gifts, and gifts with toys. Some of the most famous and well-loved toys of all time are Kenner products. The company was founded in 1946 by Albert, Phillip, and Joseph L. Steiner. Spirograph, Easy Bake Oven, Star Wars, Playdoh, and Stretch Armstrong all came from the Cincinnati based toy company. Probably the most famous of the Kenner lines was Star Wars. Having gotten the line after another company passed on it, Kenner created a new 3.75 inch figure for it, and revolutionized the entire toy market. The company was sold over the years until Hasbro finally dissolved it in 2000.
